Luxury Villa Living

Edge of Paradise

Nestled on a promontory on the northern rim of Virgin Gorda, the Edge of Paradise truly lives up to its name. Ideally situated to maximize the island's sweeping sunrise views, and with both Anegada and Sir Richard Branson's private Necker Island visible in the distance, this dramatic four-bedroom villa is perfect for early risers who want to soak up every minute of their BVI escape. Boasting four distinct pools and expansive outdoor entertainment space, the villa provides an unmatched vantage point for gazing upon the waters of the Atlantic Ocean, the Caribbean Sea, and the stunning Eustatia Sound.

DESCRIPTION

Perched in the quiet hills of the Ridge neighborhood, the Edge of Paradise affords sweeping North- and East-facing views of the Bay and surrounding islands, with an open-plan living space that makes the most of the island's cooling Easterly trade winds. The House was designed by Joseph Mosely Architects of Michigan, and was specifically designed for the topography and geometry of the lot. As a result, it offers the utmost privacy and is not visible from the road. Two master suites occupy the villa's second floor, while two additional bedrooms round out the lower level, offering maximum privacy.
