DESCRIPTION

Luxury Beach House St Agnes with Heated Pool and Sea Views

Expansive glass façades flood the interiors with natural light and maintain a constant connection to the elements. Meanwhile, tactile materials and warm finishes soften the architecture. As a result, The Bay balances coastal drama with deep restoration.

Relaxed Interiors with Coastal Character

Inside, the design draws on 1970s Californian surf culture while remaining rooted in Cornwall's landscape. Slate flooring anchors the space, while oak ceilings and Danish-inspired joinery introduce warmth and texture.

Thoughtful details elevate the experience throughout. Lamps glazed with sand from nearby shores and textured Cornish Clayworks walls celebrate local craftsmanship. In addition, a cold plunge shower and restorative steam room enhance the wellness offering, allowing you to reset after long coastal days.

Upstairs, open-plan living areas wrap around panoramic sea views, creating the perfect setting for storm watching or relaxed fireside evenings.

Heated Pool, Sauna and Atlantic Garden Setting

Outside, Cornish stone walls and wild bracken frame this private coastal sanctuary. A heated swimming pool appears to merge with the Atlantic beyond, setting the tone for slow afternoons spent moving between sauna, hot tub and sun loungers. Bedrooms on the ground floor open directly onto the garden, strengthening the indoor-outdoor flow. Notably, a sauna sits discreetly beneath the pool and remains hidden beneath a wildflower roof that blends seamlessly into the landscape. The vibrant village of St Agnes lies just a short stroll away, while the iconic South West Coast Path offers dramatic cliffside walks moments from your door. Private parking accommodates up to six cars across two gated driveways, and two EV charge points support sustainable travel.
