Villa Marconi

Positano has been called the Pearl of the Amalfi Coast for its many special characteristics that raise it above all of the other towns on the coast, and we could call Villa Marconi a pearl among the residential properties along this stretch of coast. Its position allows you to enjoy a unique view of the town of Positano and of the gulf. From its large terraces you dominate, as if on the captain's bridge of a ship, the typical whitewashed houses that slope down, one on top of the other, right down to the sea.

DESCRIPTION

Villa Marconi goes back to the 1700s and after several restorations during this time, it has now been completely renovated with the idea of turning it into a prestigious residence for holidays.

The furnishings are partly antique and those that are not are inspired by the original era of the villa, which is on three floors, each of which opens onto a large panoramic terrace, elegantly furnished. On the lowest terrace they have made a swimming-pool with sun-bathing terrace and a corner bar with refrigerator and ice-maker. You reach the villa on foot up an attractive little alley-way of about 100 metres, and our guests can use a baggage-carrying service both on arrival and on departure. The beach is reached via a series of stairways.
