Villa Rafa

Located on a private hilltop, Villa Rafa is a medieval property in Tuscany. Built around the year 1000, Villa Rafa was mentioned in Italian poet Dante Alighieri's Divine Comedy, the epic fourteenth-century work depicting paradise, purgatory and hell. The villa owners discovered the property in 2014 and instantly knew that the property would have been perfect for them, it has been fully restored to modern luxury in the year 2016. It has timeless views across vineyards and olive groves to the Italian Alps in the distance.
