DESCRIPTION

From a distance the holiday home looks like a traditional Canarian town house. Upon closer inspection, the modern elements of the completely newly-built country house are revealed to the observer: large glass fronts emerge between the massive natural stone walls and canopies and verandas establish flowing transitions between the house and the garden areas.

The holiday home has been divided into two areas: the villa (180 m2), which is located on the first floor, with space for up to 6 people and access to the patio with outdoor dining area, and the suite (50 m2) for 2 persons, which is located on the ground floor and can be booked in addition to the villa in order to accommodate further guests.

A lot of thought was put into the design of the terraces, gardens and outdoor lounging areas. Enjoy an aerial view from the veranda on the first floor, sunbathe by the pool with panoramic sea views, enjoy the morning sun while having breakfast in the patio and end the day with a barbecue in the covered outdoor dining area overlooking the pool area.
