DESCRIPTION

Five Storey Villa with Mediterranean Views

This five storey villa with Mediterranean views offers a magnificent Cretan retreat that blends tradition, family heritage, and modern luxury. Villa Bison is constructed using stone from Psiloritis Mountain, giving the property a strong connection to the island's landscape and history. As a result, it works beautifully for families or groups seeking privacy, elegance, and a memorable setting.

The villa's exterior is truly remarkable, with impressive block-style architecture and breathtaking views over the landscape and Mediterranean Sea. Surrounded by a rose garden and perennial olive trees, this five storey villa with Mediterranean views also includes a swimming pool, poolside deck, outdoor kitchen, BBQ, two large outdoor dining tables, lawn, sauna, private bar, private church, and six superb bedrooms.

The setting is peaceful and private. Therefore, guests can enjoy sunny days outdoors, relaxed evenings with family and friends, and quiet moments surrounded by Cretan nature.

Outdoor Living and Dining

The outdoor spaces are designed for both relaxation and entertaining. Guests can play games on the lawn, cool off in the pool, or soak up the sun on the poolside deck.

The rose garden and olive trees create a beautiful natural backdrop. Moreover, the views stretch across the landscape and towards the Mediterranean Sea.

An outdoor kitchen with BBQ makes al fresco meals easy and enjoyable. In addition, two huge dining tables give guests a choice of settings for shared meals.

Cretan Character and Estate Features

Villa Bison has a strong sense of place and heritage. The use of Psiloritis Mountain stone adds authenticity and connects the villa to Crete's natural landscape.

The estate also includes a private church, offering a distinctive feature for guests during their stay. As a result, the villa feels rooted in local tradition while still offering contemporary comfort.

This balance of old and new gives the property a unique personality. Therefore, Villa Bison is more than a holiday home; it is a meaningful Cretan estate.
