DESCRIPTION

Overlooking vast polo fields, extending into the wild South Downs landscape, this characterful bolthole is a fantastic rural getaway. Stepping inside, classic style meets effortless calm.

Although built in the 1800s, Brambling Lodge has undergone careful restoration – with modern fixtures sitting comfortably alongside historic features. Wide fireplaces, leaded windows and original beams are harmonised with homely touches that make you want to slip off your shoes and relax.

And here, you can. Cosy rugs are underfoot in every room, along with a calming palette and soft furnishings in a pleasing mix of patterns, colours and textures. Curl up on the comfy sofa with a good book, a glass of wine, and a well-kindled fire in the wood burner. Looking for a quiet moment? Retreat to the snug, where peace prevails. This is a property that's luxurious, but designed to be lived in.

In the kitchen, you'll discover the all-important Nespresso coffee machine, ideal for easing into your day. While you sip, take a seat by your favourite window and soak in the sights. Front and back, upstairs and down, your horizon is simply breathtaking. All three bedrooms offer far-reaching views across nearby polo pitches and out into the countryside.

At Brambling Lodge, home comforts are all in hand. Whether it's luxurious bedding and fluffy towels or the indulgence of a deep, freestanding bath, there's everything you'll need to welcome you at the end of a long day. This consideration extends to the finer details – including elegant fittings, ample storage space, and attractive, emerald-green shower tiles. Brambling Lodge welcomes six guests across three beautiful bedrooms, which include a superking, a king and a further zip-and-link superking.

When a fine day beckons, enjoy the tranquil allure of the outdoors. Leading to the front porch, there's a small cottage garden with a pretty brick path. To the rear, you'll find a large, private garden with plenty of space to unwind. Encircled by a rockery, the dining area seats eight al fresco. Beyond this stretches a generous lawn with endless potential for playing, lounging, and late-night stargazing.

Luxurious, characterful, and gloriously peaceful, this is a property that captures the charm of the English countryside. Sleeping six, it's perfect for a small gathering of family or friends, including up to two dogs. From here, it's all on your doorstep: walking routes, country sports and the seemingly endless natural landscape that makes the South Downs so special.
